

Messages from Maggie Day 6—Trusting there is an easier way

Maggie: As you are learning to lean into your own inner wisdom—asking for guidance—learning to trust that there is an easier way, you feel a sense of lightness. There is an invitation, always, that this journey on earth need not feel hard and difficult and fraught with struggle. There is an easier way. But it will not come from your intellectual mind. In fact, you will learn to go deeper into the silence and listen to the soft voice. It may be a whisper, it may be an image, a thought. A whole poem can emerge from here—a whole story. This is the source of creativity. And as you join with this, you are likely to act less and less from external pressure and more and more when you feel the inspiration.

You will trust that there is a rhythm, a soundless sound, a melody that you are just catching the faintest sense of. And yet, it reminds you of something you knew from before—something ancient yet something so familiar. We invite you to connect with us. We invite you to let go of struggle, let go of trying to organize and plan and execute your to do lists and your tasks.

Trust in the joy. Trust in that which feels joyful. Let that guide you. You may start a task and leave it half done because something else is inspiring. That is okay. A healed mind does not plan. And yet everything is taken care of, but in ways that you would not have imagined. It will not make logical sense. So do not try to understand it from that perspective.

Keep going deeper and ask. Ask your guides, “What would you have me do? Where would you have me go? What would you have me say and to whom? And when?”

There is a beautiful script of love, joy and happiness that is written for you. And you can follow it trusting that your footsteps are guided; that you are protected. All of the earthly needs are met, beyond your expectations, in ways you cannot dream of. Do not settle for this false sense of independence, which is really isolation. You are meant to create with all the powers and magnitude of creation. Don’t settle for the small.

Claim your inheritance of love and light and wisdom. This is an inner movement—an inner connection. But as you claim, as you connect, your outer world will reflect this. For what you have to share, dear child, is so precious. The world awaits for you to claim this inheritance so that it can be shared with everyone else. And they too can claim theirs.

There is so much love and light here. Never doubt this. Never doubt all the love, light and protection that are here for you, waiting for your asking. Learn to be still. Learn to ask. Desire the stillness. Desire the help with all your heart. It is your treasure. It has been waiting and you are ready. You are ready to demonstrate there is an easier way. There IS an easier way. You are ready to release this idea that we must work hard. We must sacrifice. We must toil. These ideas of no pain no gain—these are falling away.

In heaven there is no work. In heaven, there is only song—a unison of voices that come together and sing. Your life can be this way—a song of prayer and gratitude and forgiveness. Every day a new melody. Every day a new song. Yet the purpose is the same—to sing of prayer; to sing of gratitude; to sing of forgiveness. What more do you need? This is sufficient unto you, my child. And will take care of every need in the present and every need that can come in the future. All is taken care of. Your part is to strengthen your desire to ask for the help—to listen, to wait and follow. All is well.